

HOW YOUR SUPPORT SAVES LIVES

Typhoon Haiyan, which ripped through the central Philippines on November 8, 2013, was the worst natural disaster the country had experienced in more than a century.

More than 6,200 people were killed and whole communities were flattened. Bridges were destroyed, roads rendered impassable, and power and communications cut off. With fuel in short supply and no way to reach safe havens, survivors crammed into damaged schools, stadiums, and churches to wait for assistance. Within days, MSF began providing medical and humanitarian assistance in three of the most affected and isolated areas: around Guiuan in the east of Samar Island; around Tacloban, Ormoc, Santa Fe, and Burauen on Leyte Island; and around Estancia and on the northeastern archipelago of Panay Island.

MSF teams traveled by boat, truck, plane, and helicopter to assess needs and provide aid. The immediate priorities were addressing acute and immediate medical trauma needs; restoring basic medical services and facilities; providing shelter, reconstruction kits, and water and sanitation facilities; and offering psychosocial support to both children and adults.

> 2013 EXPENSES Total $24,383,947 (Amount in USD)

AREAS OF INTERVENTION

From November 8, 2013, through February 28, 2014, MSF teams treated 96,611 outpatients, admitted 2,229 patients to hospital, performed 6,391 emergency room consultations, and carried out 3,756 surgical procedures.

MSF operations in Philippines in 2013 cost $24,383,947, and MSF plans to spend another $20,948,092 on operations there in 2014–2016. The tables below provide breakdowns of how funds were—and will be—allocated, by region and category.

> RAISED FUNDS

Private Income restricted	$ 41,335,913
Institutional funds	3,313,453
Total restricted income	$ 44,649,366

> EXPENDITURES

Spent in November and December 2013	$ 24,383,947
Expenses foreseen in 2014	11,294,392
Expenses allocated to 2015–2016	9,653,700
Total expenses	$ 45,332,039

© YANN LIBESSART/MSF

EXPENSES BY CATEGORY

